

DR. LYNN MILLER

B I O

Phoenix, Arizona

Dr. Miller is the current principal of Sandra O'Connor High School and 2019 Principal of the Year in the Deer Valley Unified School District. He has been a public school administrator for the past fourteen years at the Middle and High School levels. Prior to taking the helm at O'Connor High School, he was the Principal at Deer Valley Middle School where over 5 years he and his team turned the school around and have led them to an "A+" Level school with his healthy schools approach he conducts on his campus.

Dr. Miller returns to OHS, where he was the Assistant Principal for Curriculum and Instruction. Prior to entering administration he taught multiple grades for nine years at the K - 8 setting with the major focus being in Middle School Math. His doctoral research focused on building Purposeful Communities at the campus level. As a practicing Instructional Leader he is currently developing a systems approach to learning via deploying specific goal teams across his campus to ensure that learning gaps are strategically targeted with laser-like focus. His leadership beliefs are strongly aligned to developing "learners" for tomorrow's "leaders" while empowering shared leadership amongst his staff. His goal in education is to create instructional leaders that can pioneer our learning into the 21st century and beyond.

The motto for OHS will still reign with, "Expect the Best, Get the Best", but while honoring our past we will continue to strive for Excellence and in doing so we will develop leaders. Dr. Miller is adamant about "Honoring Learning while Building Leaders." Dr. Miller has been facilitating adult learning for ASU and NAU for five years as a face to face professor along with being an online facilitator.
